Truman Cancels Atom Bomb Test on Eve Of U. N. O. Meeting

Iran's Complaint Has Top Priority In U.N.O. Council

Rates No. 3 Now but Heavy Pressure by Stettinius Is Likely to Move It to No. 1

New York, March 23 (AP)—Consideration of the Iranian complaint against Russia was handed a high priority today on the provisional agenda of the United Nations Security Council, which is due to open its sessions Monday.

The Iranian question, concerning the country's protest against the continued presence of Soviet troops on its territory in alleged violation of a tri-partite treaty, was listed as item No. 3 in the agenda which will be submitted to the 11-nation group.

Rearrangement of the schedule can be made after the meeting opens, however, so as to give the case immediate consideration, according to U.N.O. General Secretary Trygve Lie. This would be in accordance with a request by Edward R. Stettinius, U. S. delegate, who has urged that the dispute be first on the calendar.

But listed ahead of the Iranian case now was the report on rules for the military staff committee, Arkady Sobolev of Russia, Assistant General Secretary, said yesterday, the agenda would be offered after Dr. Quo Tai-Chi of China opens the session. Then the council will take up the question of adopting the provisional agenda.

Asked at a news conference if Stettinius would seek to change the order of the items, Lie replied: "You can be quite sure Mr. Stettinius will take care of that."

Lie also told at his first news conference at Hunter College that the four letters received in connection with the Iranian question would be "lumped together" for discussion. The letters included two from the government of Iran asking for Council consideration of the matter, one from the Russian government asking for a postponement of the council session until April 10, and the Stettinius request.

The U.N.O. General Secretary, in reply to a question as to whether Iran, not a member of the Security Council, would be represented at the opening session, said: "I should be surprised if the Iranian ambassador will be seen in New York on Monday."

He also disclosed that four nations now have submitted nominations for the U.N.O. Atomic Committee. He said they were Bernard Baruch, United States; Sir Alexander Cadogan, Great Britain; Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S.S.R.; and E. N. Van Kleffens, the Netherlands.

Truman's First Major Political Speech Tonight

Washington, March 23 (AP)—President Truman was billed to today for a hard-hitting speech to keynote his party's Jackson Day dinners throughout the nation.

The White House disclosed it would be the Chief Executive's first avowed political address since becoming President, and an aim said it would be front page talk, both hard-hitting and "progressive."

Secretary Wallace, who has suggested reading out of the party those legislators who oppose the administration on major issues, will speak from the same platform.

Mr. Truman's 2,000-word speech will be delivered at the main $100 a plate banquet here at 10:15 p. m. (E.S.T.) following the commerce secretary's 12-minute address.

National radio networks will carry the two principal addresses to the other 100 dinner rallies, in which an estimated 150,000 Democrats will participate across the country.

Capital Buzzing Over Reasons Behind His Surprise Decision on Postponement

Off Six Weeks
Test Task Force Has Already Started for Target Site

By ELTON C. FAY
Washington, March 23 (AP)—President Truman called the Pacific atom bomb test off for six weeks and thereby set the capital buzzing today over the reasons behind his surprise decision.

Mr. Truman said merely he was ordering the postponement because a "heavy legislative" calendar will prevent congressmen from witnessing the experiments which were scheduled to start in the Bikini Atoll on May 15.

Announcement of the postponement virtually on the eve of the U.N.O. sessions in New York aroused much conjecture, however, particularly since yesterday produced Generalissimo Stalin's public avowal of confidence in U.N.O.'s future world role and his statement he believed no nation was seeking war.

Perplexing features in the picture were that the A-bomb test task force already had been put in motion and that the U.N.O. meeting, as well as continued congressional sessions, both have been fairly definite for some time. And Capitol Hill has not noted any widespread clamor from legislators to witness the experiment.

Initial reaction was that the President's unexpected decision was related in some degree to the uneasy recent state of international affairs, the congressional controversy over the military's role in future atomic development, and also the administration's difficulties in mustering sufficient votes in the House and Senate for its program.

Mr. Truman's order, issued last night, took congressmen and armed force commanders by surprise.

The joint Army-Navy task force had proceeded with plans to start the tests off with the first bomb drop on May 15—until the White House told Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy to wait until July 1. Task force personnel already were assembling at Bikini and ships stood by at Pearl Harbor, making ready to proceed to the target area. A force of about 35,000 Army and Navy personnel and civilian scientists already is mustered for the tests.

While Mr. Truman's terse statement went into no details, it was assumed his comment about a legislative situation referred to current controversies in Congress such as the argument over bills on atomic energy control, housing, labor, and wages. The Democratic leadership has only a narrow working majority in the House, creating a situation where the absence of a few votes could mean defeat.

Joint task force experts were confident that postponement of the tests for six weeks would cause no serious complications. The theater in the Bikini Atoll after July 1 will not be as favorable as before that date, they said, but still would not prevent the tests from being conducted.

Most of the occupants will be veterans attending Fordham, New York and Columbia Universities. The property, now unused, is owned by New York City.

War Refugees Big Issue for UNRRA

500,000 Displaced Persons Need Food but Have Disputed Priority

Atlantic City, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Delegates to U.N.R.R.A.'s Council meeting today took up the long-simmering dispute over what to do with hundreds of thousands of war-scattered refugees who do not want to go home.

This issue, involving more than 500,000 "displaced persons," reached the council floor today while representatives of 47 nations pondered their primary question—how to eke out from the world's available food supplies enough to feed a hungry world.

Most of them privately, some of them publicly, stated their belief that it just could not be done, with the result that sentiment is mounting here for a formal recommendation that peoples from enemy countries must stand last in the queue for food relief.

Quietly, behind the scenes, a move to bring the United States back to wartime rationing of commodities in short supply—particularly cereals, fats and oils—was gathering momentum despite a claim by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson that such a step would prove "impractical."

Richmond To Be Here Late This Afternoon

How About It, Folks! Let's Cut It Down

If you are a normal, run-of-the-mill eater, you have been consuming about twice as much of fats and oils as you need to maintain health according to nutrition experts of U. S. Department of Agriculture—i.e., about 200 per cent ahead of any danger line and 100 per cent above your actual needs.

Famine Emergency Committee asks you to give up just 20 per cent of the fats and oils you are using—whether in fried foods, salad dressings, biscuits, or pastries. Take 20 from 200 and you still have a lot left. So buy at least 20 per cent less of fats and oils during this Springtime world emergency.

That will mean more fats and oils can be spared for shipment overseas to help feed victims of war and drought.

Army Reimposes Troop Blackout

Movements and Location of Large Units Will Not Be Announced

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The Army has re-imposed a wartime security blackout of the movement and location of divisions or larger troop units, the War Department disclosed today.

The order applies to units in the United States as well as those overseas. It was described by officials as temporary pending further study whether to reinstate indefinitely a ban on release of information concerning such troop movements which was lifted at the end of the war.

(The action affects only official Army announcements. Voluntary wartime censorship restrictions on newspapers have been lifted and there is nothing to prevent publication of such news obtained from sources other than the Army.)

Officials decline comment whether it related to the current international situation. They said among "several reasons" for the order were frequent and sudden changes in orders for troop movements, which caused disappointment and confusion to families expecting the return of soldiers from overseas.

The restriction, they said, has no connection with recurrent rumors of an emergency alert which the War Department has officially denied.

Ferry for Kingston, Rhinecliff Service Left Edgewater at 10 O'clock

The ferryboat Richmond, which has been purchased by the New York Bridge Authority, to operate between Kingston and Rhinecliff, left Edgewater, N. J., this morning about 10 o'clock and was expected to arrive at Kingston between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The ferryboat, which has been lying between 125th street, New York city, and Edgewater, will be taken to the Hiltbrand Dry Dock Company at Connelly where it will be placed in dry dock for government inspection and painting of the hull.

The crew members are Chris Tierney of Kingston, captain; Howard Hornbeck and John Miller, both of Kingston, engineers; John J. Malone of Kingston, pilot; and Robert Hamm of High Falls, and Arthur Brown of Kingston, deckhands.

James F. Loughran, Ulster county superintendent of highways, representing the Bridge Authority, and William K. Haggins, executive officer of the Army, went to New York city Friday to complete negotiations for the acquiring of the ferry.

The price paid for the ferryboat was said to be about $175,000. It is expected that ferry service between this city and Rhinecliff will start about April 15. The ferry terminals used by the old Kingston-Rhinecliff Ferry Co., are to be acquired by the state, and the purchase of the two terminals will be consummated as soon as search of title is completed.

From what could be learned there is some work that will have to be done on the ferry slips before they can be used, but the amount of work is small and can be easily completed within a brief period of time.

No information is available as yet as to the schedule of ferry service to be maintained.

Federal Mediators Quit Westinghouse Parley

New York, March 23 (AP)—Two federally-appointed mediators have withdrawn from the wage dispute between the Westinghouse Electric Corporation and its striking C.I.O. Electrical Workers, and negotiations between the company and the union have been broken off.

William H. Davis, one of the mediators, said late last night that he and Arthur S. Meyer, Chairman of the New York State Mediation Board, were "retiring from the case," and added they would make a report to Secretary of Labor Schwelb "probably" next Monday.

Their withdrawal came after the rejection by the union and the company of offers each had made during the last week.

General Motors Strike Seen As Bitter Issue Before C.I.O.

By MAX HALL
Atlantic City, March 23 (AP)—The General Motors strike appears likely to become a bitterly fought issue at the C.I.O. United Auto Workers convention opening here today.

About 2,000 U.A.W.-C.I.O. delegates converged on the convention hall in an air of tenseness for their first session this afternoon.

Many of them were convinced that a debate on the strategy of the four month General Motors strike is inevitable within the next few days.

Here's why:
(1) The delegates expect a name calling, rip-roaring struggle for the presidency of the union—the first major presidential contest in the union's 10 year history.
(2) And one of the expected candidates happens to be the man who led the strike, Walter Reuther.

Statement Hailed As Encouraging Sign for Peace

Diplomatic Circles See Easing of World Tension as Result of Stalin Declaration

London, March 23 (AP)—Diplomatic circles and newspapers generally foresaw an easing of world tension today as a result of Generalissimo Stalin's statement to The Associated Press that no nation is "seeking another war."

Stalin, who also affirmed his confidence in the United Nations Organization as a "serious instrument" for preserving peace, made his assertions in a written reply yesterday to three questions put to him by A.P. Correspondent Eddy Gilmore.

Gustav Rasmussen, Denmark's Foreign Minister, said that statement would "be welcomed in Denmark" and would "no doubt have a cooling effect on those who have lately shown some signs of excitement."

In Washington, a White House spokesman said that President Truman's reaction was that he always had known that was exactly the way Stalin felt.

British government leaders declined comment for publication. Winston Churchill, reached on the Queen Mary on which he is returning to England following a visit in the United States, said he had "no comment."

Most London morning newspapers carried the full text of the Gilmore interview on their front pages and the Soviet News, published in London by the Russian embassy, printed the interview under a banner headline which said, "Stalin replies to Associated Press correspondent."

The Moscow radio, heard in London, broadcast the text of the interview 10 times in 12 hours. Two supplementary Tass broadcasts carried the interview to bureaus of the official Russian news agency for distribution in the majority of European capitals.

The text also was carried on a broadcast beamed to the Far East and on a dictation-speed broadcast for the provincial press, indicating that the interview was carried in all Russian newspapers. The text also was broadcast on long, medium and shortwave bands in the Russian home service.

GIs Quit Iceland
Reykjavik, Iceland, March 23 (AP)—Fewer than 1,200 American troops remain in Iceland, where their presence has been a subject of Moscow criticism. No formal action seeking their withdrawal has been announced by the Iceland government.

der consideration would put the convention on record as opposing "company security" clauses in union contracts. This, too, is likely to touch off a battle if it reaches the convention floor for debate.

The automobile companies have been pressing for such clauses designed to protect the companies against unauthorized or "wild cat" strikes by penalizing the workers who take part. Such a provision was written into the U.A.W.-Ford agreement and it aroused considerable opposition among Ford workers. There is no "company security" clause in the U.A.W. agreement with General Motors.

The main event on today's program is a speech by President Thomas this afternoon. He wouldn't say in advance whether he would talk politics so early since the election of officers will not come up until next Thursday or Friday.

In an annual report yesterday, George Addes, the union's veteran secretary-treasurer, criticized the record of President Truman and Congress, and declared that during the long G.M. strike the union received little aid or encouragement from the government.

Congress, he said, has "an even worse record" than the administration.

He called for a Congressional house cleaning in November, and asserted:
"Party lines must be thrown overboard and legislators elected on the basis of their past record and not because of their pledge of adherence to any political platform."

No Nation Seeks War He States

Truman Declares He Had Always Known Way the Russian Leader Felt

Reactions

General Smith, New Envoy, Is to Leave Tomorrow

By JACK BELL
Washington, March 23 (AP)—A more hopeful feeling on future international relations pervaded the capital today as a new United States ambassador prepared to leave for Moscow.

Generalissimo Stalin's avowal of faith in the United Nations Organization was taken as an encouraging prelude to the departure of Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, the new envoy, for his post in the Soviet capital. He plans to leave tomorrow.

President Truman's reaction to the Stalin statement was that he had always known the way the Russian leader felt. A White House spokesman disclosed this last night.

While lawmakers generally welcomed Stalin's declaration that no nations or their armies are seeking another war, there were many crossed fingers on Capitol Hill. The doubt was whether future Russian policy would back up everything Stalin had to say.

Senator Hatch (D-N.M.) asserted that it is up to Russia now to make her actions conform with Stalin's assertion that strength of U.N.O. lies in equality "and not on the principles of the domination of some states over others."

The New Mexico senator told a reporter that after reading an interview with Stalin obtained by Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press Moscow correspondent, he believes the Soviet chief of state has a "complete misunderstanding" of free speech as it is known in this country.

He referred to Stalin's remarks that:
"It is necessary that the public and ruling circles of the powers organize a world wide counter-propaganda against the propagandists of a new war, and for the insuring of peace—so that not a single act of the propagandists of a new war should remain without due rebuff on the part of the public and press, so that the incendiaries of war may thus be exposed in good time and may have no chance of misusing freedom of speech against the interests of peace."

"Propaganda, counter or otherwise, will not ally fears caused by actions belying words," declared Hatch, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and close personal friend of President Truman.

"If the great Soviet Union and the other nations faithfully adhere to the basic principles of the San Francisco charter, all fear will disappear overnight."

Taft's Statement
Similarly, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he couldn't agree with what he interpreted as Stalin's "emphasis" on propaganda as a weapon for peace.

"We have had too much of that already," he said.

Two Suicides and Further Looting Of Bread Stores

Hamburg, March 23 (AP)—Two suicides and further looting of bread stores were disclosed today as British authorities announced additional supplies were on the way to help ease the threat of starvation in the British occupational zone of Germany.

A 45-year-old German woman who has used up her March bread ration hanged herself in her home. Another housewife threw herself in front of a train.

A British public health officer said that if the present German ration of 1,000 calories daily was not increased within the next six weeks or two months "you will see a pronounced effect."

More Hamburg bread shops were robbed during the night despite the posting of extra police.

British authorities said supplies of vegetables, cocoa and fish were on the way.

Fire Sweeps 200 Acres In Lomontville Area

A forest fire which is reported to have swept over some 200 acres in the Lomontville area Friday was brought under control about 7 o'clock last night.

Asa Krom, observer at the Galis Hill fire tower, reported the fire to Fire Warden James Allen of Marlinton at 10:30 Friday morning and yesterday afternoon Warden Ray Wynn of Stony Hollow was called and brought additional fire fighters.

This morning Observer Krom noticed a grass fire at the foot of Galis Hill. He called the Hurley fire department and they soon had it under control. Started to burn grass in a field, wind swept the fire out of control and it would have reached the woods if it had not been stopped when it was.

Predict Outbreak of Oriental Diseases in U. S.

Honolulu, March 23 (AP)—Capt. Paul Withington, assistant medical officer of the 14th Naval District, declared today that the United States was "sitting on a volcano of disease" from the Orient which might erupt in a major epidemic at any time.

Withington, a former Honolulu physician who was awarded the Legion of Merit yesterday, said the danger to rapid demobilization and resultant loss of medical personnel in the armed forces.

Japanese scrub typhus and malaria have spread in the Pacific while smallpox, cholera, and typhoid fever also are threatening widely, he said. He emphasized that he was expressing his own views.

(California state health authorities at San Francisco yesterday announced an "outbreak" of smallpox from the Orient in the San Francisco area, calling upon the public to undergo vaccination promptly.)

Chilly March Winds Outdone by Warm Sun

Chilly March winds whirled through the city's streets early this morning, while the official thermometer was recording a low of 33 degrees. As the sun rose in the sky it gradually grew warmer, and it was expected that today would prove as warm as yesterday.

According to the readings of the official thermometer yesterday was the second warmest day so far experienced this year with the thermometer recording 73 degrees in the shade at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The warmest day so far during the year was March 14, when the official thermometer recorded a high of 79 degrees in the afternoon, while on March 13, a reading of 72 degrees was recorded.

Atomic Secrets Intact Gen. Groves Tells Press

Los Angeles, March 23 (AP)—The secrets of the atom bomb are safe from any spy ring, says Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, Army Director of Atomic Projects.

The bomb project is a little like a giant jigsaw puzzle with 100,000 pieces," he said at a press conference. "A chance betrayal by one of our scientists might reveal five or 10 pieces out of the 100,000, but that would mean almost nothing."

General Groves, here to examine ships being prepared for the Bikini Atoll tests, said the delay in the experiments, announced yesterday, would bring better results because of the added time for preparations. He said his personal opinion is that the bomb, despite the ship's deck or a few feet above it, we will never find that ship."

Brush and Grass Fires Keep Firemen Busy

Ulster Hose Co. No. 5, was called out Friday evening to put out a grass and brush fire which threatened the model pre-fabricated house on Albany avenue extension. It is understood that some brush had been burned in the yard and the fire had been put out. Later, however, wind fanned the embers and the fire started up again.

Pneumonia and Heart Disease Main Death Causes

Albany, March 23—The death rate of 134 per 1,000 population for New York state for January, 1946, was higher only once in the past nine years, according to figures released by the State Department of Health.

The exception was January 1944, when the state's mortality was 135. The five-year average death rate for this period is 123.

The main cause of the 14 per cent mortality rise was that for January of last year is a sharp increase in deaths from diseases of the heart and pneumonia.

The birth rate, 16.1, was slightly less than a year ago, but well above the figures in the immediately preceding pre-war period.

Infant mortality, 36 deaths under one year per 1,000 live births, was 11 per cent higher than in the corresponding month of last year because of an increase in mortality from prematurity and other conditions which affect primarily babies under one month.

The Health Department disclosed. The mortality between one month and one year decreased slightly. Maternal mortality, 16 deaths per 10,000 live and still births, was slightly higher than the minimum of 15 established two years ago.

New Styles, Colors Mark Annual Fashion Show Of Women's Club as Best Since Before War

Not since before the war has such a display of fashions, new colors and styles been modeled at the Y.W.C.A. Women's Club Fashion Show as exhibited yesterday afternoon at the annual show in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

About 70 garments were shown each with a distinctive style note, promising the return to careful dressing and new trends. About 400 people attended.

Navy blue is back. The new colors included a vivid medium blue; a deep turquoise entitled procelain blue; a new neutral, silver birch; a pale lettuce green; and a blue described as deeper than Copen. It was explained that violet and lavender shades were few because of the difficulty in obtaining a high grade dye in these colors.

Although restrictions still in effect, the dressmaker how much material may be used in each garment, dress lines are generally more rounded and feminine than the straight, tailored, heavily shoulder-padded clothes of the last few years.

Evening gowns and the street length style formal gowns were shown for the first time in several years. Peplums predominated; peplums on cottons, front peplums on afternoon dresses and peplums on suits. Slender skirts were made with peg tops for suits and in dresses were eased at the waistline with the side front fullness. Applique, embroidery and sequins were used sparingly. Several bare midriff styles were shown. Real baby raw silk returned this year.

Setting Attractive
The setting for the show was most attractive, this year with many brilliant colored cineraria provided by Valentin Burgein Inc. and special spot lights by Canfield Supply Co. and Herbert Myers. Several platforms were arranged with the flowers and lights by Miss Helen Sheldon, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Howard A. Lewis, Mrs. Richard Morse and Miss Ruth Smith. Several bouquets of forsythia and pussy willows were used as background. Mrs. Helen Davenport was commentator and Mrs. Vere Nessel provided the musical background with selections on the piano. During intermission she also played several songs on the piano accordion.

Children Model

The first to model were the children. A gray, coral and green plaid suit with coral Chesterfield and navy blue off-the-face hat were shown by a seven-year-old girl. A pink cotton was trimmed with embroidery. A family group modeled a yellow cotton with white eyelet embroidery trimming and yoke for little sister; pale blue wool suit with striped top for baby brother and a soft aqua striped cotton chambray for mother. Grandmother wore a turquoise jumper type dress with white blouse and carried baby dressed in pink dotted Swiss with white pique bonnet. For the school boy a Frank Sinatra two-toned gray suit complete with bow tie was modeled and a leisure sport suit was shown for the high school boy.

Each of the play clothes styles had a distinctive note from the pianoforte to the bare midriff in black with pink flower print. This midriff suit minus the skirt became a bathing suit.

The morning and early afternoon dresses were shown in the same grouping. For the younger set a pale yellow cotton was modeled with a flare front peplum edged with gray eyelet embroidery. The suit cardigan neckline was also marked with the embroidery.

The front peplum was used in a sheer pink tailored dress. A halter-neck dress with bolero was shown in a red and gray on white. A deep rose print in Bernberg sheer was designed with the favorite fly-front. A brown striped aqua chambray used the bare midriff and a flounced hemline.

A draw-string pink rayon skirt printed with black was worn with a black blouse. One of the straight line dresses in chartreuse buttoned down the back had a high jewelry neckline and was worn with a black belt caught with two fuchsia colored carnations. A cream color dress with red accessories was suggested for the teen-age group. A bright red rayon print was fashioned with soft skirt fullness and a semi-low neckline outlined with an accordion pleated ruffle.

Suits in Many Styles

Two suits for the matron were shown one an ideal soft gray wool, collarless neckline, yoke with detailed fullness, one button jacket, fly front skirt; and the other in a soft aqua color made with similar details and worn with a black Chesterfield. In contrast was a navy blue suit for the younger set. The jacket with the new periot peplum was completely lined with red flannel. A black skirt and black striped jacket of Guatemala cloth. This jacket featured the front belt and full wing back. A silver fox jacket was worn over a black wool dress suit made with drop shoulder yoke. A cerise short length top was designed with a belted back. The peplum in the later afternoon dresses was used several times. For the debutante a semi-tailored frock in chartreuse with tiny black sequin print had a tailored peplum. A navy blue crepe dress for the matron had a front peplum and plain back. A peplum effect was simulated with white band trimming on the new "deeper than Copen blue" dress. A rayon silk print contained shades of brown, maroon and yellow on a light blue background. This was made on straight lines. A gray wool dress with cape sleeves was worn with a matching green plaid jacket which was made with a drop-shoulder effect yoke outlined with gray fringe. The silver birch color in crepe was used for an afternoon dress with black top for the bodice and a band of tangerine. A late afternoon frock of black taffeta was designed with low neckline, tiny puffed sleeves and full skirt. The basic black was styled with square neckline and side drape.

Evening gowns and the street length style formal gowns were shown for the first time in several years. Peplums predominated; peplums on cottons, front peplums on afternoon dresses and peplums on suits. Slender skirts were made with peg tops for suits and in dresses were eased at the waistline with the side front fullness. Applique, embroidery and sequins were used sparingly. Several bare midriff styles were shown. Real baby raw silk returned this year.

Evening Gowns

There were five evening gowns, three of which were the new short length to double at cocktail time. Of the latter the most unusual was a soft lettuce green gown. When worn with matching jacket it resembled a sport dress, but when the jacket was removed the gown was designed with simple shoulder straps and an all-around bare midriff of lattice work. Another was a bolero covered black strapless gown with lamb applique on the skirt. Another short gown for the younger group was in white with aqua applique bows paneling the front, aqua straps and an aqua bolero. The evening gown modeled was made with a red jersey bodice and bouffant white net skirt. A dinner gown in gray and blue print jersey was also shown.

Hats Varied

Hats shown from the Paris Millinery, Teresa-Rose Hat Shop and Carl Millinery showed a diversified selection. The half hats were still in good taste this year as were modified sailors and flowered hats. The texture of the straws varied. Several showed the flowers arranged down one side of the hat rather than at the top. Velvet and grosgrain ribbon bands caught with small clusters of flowers were favorites with the younger models. Jewelry, including several stunning dinner rings as well as lapel pins and necklaces, was from Safford and Scudder. Gloves and several of the pocketbooks were from The Wonderly Co. and Mayfair shops.

Clothing was from the shops of London's, Brother and Sister, Jeanette, Mayfair, Montgomery Ward, Weisberg's, Goldman's, Sue Loughran, Hurley; and Helen Davenport.

In closing the show two dresses from the latter part of the last century were modeled. Miss Helen Loughran wore a white graduation dress which had been worn at old Kingston Academy in 1882. Miss Ruth Smith modeled a black moire taffeta formal afternoon dress of 1870. Both dresses belonged to Miss Smith.

Models for the children's fashions were Nancy Remmert, Clara Lewis, Mrs. Herbert L. Schultz, Sr., and children Herbert and Barbara Schultz; Billy Herlihy, Mrs. Howard A. Lewis as the grandmother, and Charles Arnold for high school boy.

Other models included the Misses Phyllis Ertel, Bianca Ertel, Babette Forst, Nancy Halverson, Patricia Caunitz, Elaine Gruberg, Mary Fenton, Barbara Dawe, Ann Steenken, Patricia Craft, Barbara Krom and Hilda Brown. Mrs. William H. Fuller, Mrs. Louise P. Hurley, Mrs. Arnold Johnson, Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, Mrs. Willis R. Locke, Mrs. Parran Gates, Mrs. G. Herbert DeKay, Mrs. Marie Gilpatrick, Mrs. William H. KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 23, 1946

FERRY BILL FACTS

The bill authorizing and directing the New York State Bridge Authority to install and operate a ferry between Kingston and Rhinecliff was introduced by Senator Wicks in the early days of the 1945 session of the Legislature, was signed by the Governor and became Chapter 836 of the Laws of 1945. That bill authorized the bridge authority to issue bonds for the purchase of a ferryboat and two terminals, and fixed the life of such bonds. During the summer of 1945, the state comptroller and the attorney general consented to the use of funds from the improvement fund of the bridge authority for the purchase of a boat and terminals, which made the issuance of bonds unnecessary. Ever since last summer, the bridge authority has been searching for a boat that was suitable for the run between Kingston and Rhinecliff and success crowned its efforts several months ago, when the modern ferryboat Richmond was located and plans made for its purchase. The bridge authority has since entered into a purchase contract with the Rhinebeck & Kingston Ferry Co. for the purchase of the two present ferry terminals and this transaction will be consummated as soon as the searching of the title of the properties has been completed by the attorney general.

On January 30, 1946, Senator Wicks introduced a bill in the Senate, which has now passed both houses of the Legislature, known as Senate Int. 841, Print 888, entitled, "An act to repeal subdivisions 17 and 18 of section 61 of the state finance law, relating to the probable life of ferry terminals and ferryboats for purposes of state debt". This bill, of course, had nothing whatsoever to do about establishing a ferry here because that had been done by Chapter 836 of the laws of 1945, passed and approved by the Governor last year. This new bill simply takes out of the law the provisions put in the law last year which authorized the bridge authority to issue bonds and providing when the bonds had to be paid, which, in legal parlance, is called "probable life."

In other words, no bonds were issued, because the funds were taken out of the funds now on hand by the bridge authority, and it was deemed advisable, in the interest of good legal craftsmanship, to take out of the law powers of the bridge authority to issue bonds which were no longer necessary.

Goering pleads in his defense that he did not want war in 1939. No, provided the Nazis got everything they wanted without it. Few robbers beat up their victims if they give up their money without resistance.

Traffic accidents to children between the ages of four and fourteen years increased twenty-four per cent in 1945, according to the National Safety Council.

WHAT THE GERMANS READ

What are the Germans in the American occupation zone reading? H. R. Baukhage, writing in the Saturday Review of Literature, who has been trying to find out, says that the answer is simple: anything they can.

Practical information on how to make the food ration go farther, how to make essential repairs, and economical suggestions about clothing are the most popular. Novels which might let the readers escape temporarily from their dreary surroundings are always in demand. But the most surprising discovery is the popularity of the magazines issued by OMGS, as the Office of the Military Government of the United States is currently known. These magazines have articles on democracy and American ideals, rather heavy going for American taste; but they are snapped up by the Germans. The idea behind these magazines is to show the Germans that we are capable of serious philosophical and literary effort, since the Nazis had been representing Americans as barbaric children. So far 200,000 copies of one of the most serious of these magazines have been sold, and it continues to be reprinted.

All this is seed sown. Only time will tell

LEHMAN VS. HOOVER

Obviously Governor Lehman resigned from U.N.R.R.A. in pique over the appointment of Herbert Hoover to discover why U.N.R.R.A. failed to save Europe from famine. During the entire course of the war, Mr. Hoover has been warning of famine, and even when Governor Lehman visited him at the Waldorf-Astoria upon his appointment to head U.N.R.R.A., Mr. Hoover warned him of the nearness of famine. The former President is now in Europe representing not a congeries of nations but the people of the United States, the most generous nation on earth.

But U.N.R.R.A. is a political agency. It is a compromise among governments and it cannot possibly work because some governments want to use hunger, starvation, distress and despair politically. I am sure that Mr. Lehman has all along meant well, but he is not one that fights great names nor for great causes. He is more the administrative type that respects authority even when it is vile, and dignifies the corrupt of heart by obedience when circumstance demands that he speak out truthfully, and courageously no matter whom his words may blast.

Mr. Lehman knows, as he must, that the wheat that Soviet Russia offers France is American wheat to be carried in American ships. Anyone with even slight political acumen will recognize that this offer was made France so that the hungry French, in their despair, will in May vote for Thorez, the French Communist. They will vote for anyone for bread, for they are hungry. Wheat is used for politics, not for relief. Hunger is employed to corrupt the spirit as it weakens the body.

Does Mr. Lehman or U.N.R.R.A. dare to demand that Russia pool her surplus with Canada pool ours and as the Argentine would undoubtedly be willing to pool her surplus? Does he inquire of the wheat of the Ukraine and White Russia and Bessarabia and the Dobruja—granaries of Europe for centuries? Does he ask Russia to pay her full share into U.N.R.R.A.?

Famine does not wait upon personalities nor politeness. Senator Pepper may seriously support politeness, but death from starvation is not arrested by the timidity of the Floridian whose heart is sensitive to Moscow. Until the next harvest is gathered, millions of men, women and children must die of hunger no matter how much is done for them.

What they need most are grains and fats. Rationing the American people will not aid more than voluntary abnegation. But what is absolutely essential is that grain, needed for human consumption, shall not be fed to animals. Because of O.P.A.'s unscientific, impractical ceiling prices, it pays the American farmer to feed grain to hogs rather than to sell the grain for human consumption. And again, because of O.P.A. stupidity, it does not pay the packer to trim lard and tallow. The butcher, in the store, sells the housewife fatty meats which go into our garbage pails. Those fats are essential to save the European sufferers from famine.

To put the whole problem bluntly, the American garbage pail could save millions of lives. Has Mr. Lehman ever told the American people the truth about that? Has U.N.R.R.A. waged a public battle against waste, depending upon the goodwill and charity of the American housewife rather than upon sniping O.P.A. officials? Has he ever shown the American people what he must know to be true, that U.N.R.R.A. might have done an effective job if O.P.A. had not dislocated farm-food prices so that food humans weep for, hogs eat?

It sometimes takes great courage and it is often bad manners to tell the truth. It might even involve a breach of good-fellowship with those who pull at the same strap. So, all that Mr. Lehman can offer to handle a famine is the resumption of rationing in the United States. That is about as stupid as Henry Wallace's fake report on wages and prices. It is of a piece with all the initiative totalitarianism in our planless, improvised New Deal.

Sniping at Hoover will not help bring anyone a loaf of bread. It will only comfort the Communists who fear the consequences of an honest report to the nation by a courageous American. (Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

FALSE PLEURISY

Some years before World War II, I wrote about an epidemic of what at first appeared to be pleurisy which occurred in a village in England. Further investigation revealed that it was false pleurisy because the pain was really in the muscles on the outside of the ribs instead of in the membrane or lining of inside of ribs. This ailment is called false pleurisy or pleurodynia, which occurring in other parts of the body is usually called muscular rheumatism or a "cold" in the muscles. There were so many cases that while the actual cause was unknown it was believed to be a communicable disease.

Toward the end of World War II another epidemic occurred in a New Zealand Air Force Station. There were 32 cases reported by Dr. R. N. Akel. All the patients recovered in a few days, relief from pain being obtained by strapping the chest with adhesive tape as in true pleurisy. This prevents much movement of the chest muscles. Dr. Akel pointed out that in pleurodynia there is a rise in temperature which is not found in muscular rheumatism or a "cold" in the muscles of the chest.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Samuel J. Niehman, Surgeon (R), U. S. Public Health Service, Memphis, Tenn., reports that in the early summer of 1944 he was confronted with an outbreak of epidemic pleurodynia on an island war housing project for shipyard workers. Because the men lived together, ate the same food, and had same working conditions an opportunity was given to study this disease. From June to November, 1944, 75 cases of epidemic pleurodynia were collected on Blakely Island located on the Mobile River. While some of these cases started with a nose and throat disturbance as in so many other ailments most of them did not. The one outstanding symptom in about half the cases was a rise in temperature, whereas in previous epidemics as many as 90 per cent had this rise in temperature. Another feature of this epidemic was pain in upper back chest muscles.

Symptoms besides pain in chest wall were pain in forehead, dizziness, nausea, numbness in hands and arms. Symptoms lasted 1 to 2 weeks. There were no deaths. Rest was the treatment.

For One Who Grabs Honey--

IN COUNTY GRANGES

The discussion on Centralized Schools was opened at the Ulster Grange meeting on Wednesday evening, March 20th, when Ralph Johnson, District Superintendent of Schools stated "I am your servant . . . if you don't get your money's worth, it's your own fault . . . I am here to serve you and answer any and all questions, no matter how personal . . . If I don't know the answer, I'll get them for you."

While no definite action on this subject was taken by the Grange, it was apparent, nevertheless, from the type and number of questions asked, the large attendance, and the general discussion which continued long after the meeting had been closed, that something is about to percolate insofar as Grange members are concerned.

Supt. Johnson displayed charts and figures describing various phases of centralization and the problems of taxes, location, type of building, state aid, and many others, were taken up. He stated that he did not feel the Town of Eosopus could afford more than a junior high school at this time. According to his records there are 533 boys and girls now available for the centralized school, comprising districts 1, 2, 4, 5, 8, 12, 13, 14 and 15.

Master George M. Hard presided at the meeting. Applications for membership were received from Mrs. George Villard, Jr., Ulster Park, and James Helmich, St. Remy. Application for reinstatement was received from Walter Helmich, St. Remy. Ralph Montella, Ulster Park was obligated in the first and second degrees. Mrs. E. Jaqui Villard, reported the net proceeds of the Red Cross card party were $33.27. This amount has been turned over to the Red Cross chairman, Earl Terwilliger.

Grange members who have been serving in the armed forces will be the guests of honor at a "Welcome Home" dinner to be held on April 3rd, prior to the regular meeting.

Mrs. George M. Hard, lecturer, is raising money for a special prize to be awarded the Ulster Grange member whose "Highway Essay" is selected for competition in the state and national contests. The amount of the award will be announced at a later date.

The Literary program, which was in charge of the lecturer was appropriately ended with the singing of "School Days."

Refreshments were served by the committee which included Mrs. B. Williams, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Opta Gaudette, Mr. and Mrs. George Villard, Jr., and Mrs. Bounous, Patsy Cafaro, and Mrs. and Miss Elsie Berger.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Beware Housing Problem Among Your Roses

By DEAN HALIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

YOU MAY HAVE a "housing problem" among your roses and not know it. If you do you can blame it upon the carpenter bee. Thousands of rose bushes are killed each year by this bee. It is small, has black wings, and works overtime.

The carpenter bee bores down into the soft pith in the stubs of rose canes. Its egg masses are deposited in apartments in the rose cane with a tiny floor built over each section, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

The eggs hatch out into green borers, and these in turn form a chrysalis which reproduces from 10 to 12 carpenter bees.

You will know that the carpenter bee has been at work when you see a small hole neatly bored in the end of a cut cane. The cane turns brown and must be taken care of before the bee does damage down to the roots of the rose bush. Otherwise the destruction of the pith inside the cane will cause the bush to die. Prune infected rose canes down to the fresh pith, below the affected part. Applying grafting wax to the freshly cut end of the cane, and this will keep the carpenter bee from drilling new holes. Some gardeners push a large-headed tack down into the newly cut-off stem to balk the bee.

Brown canker on a rose cane is also illustrated. This causes the death or killing back of the canes or stems from girdling by the spreading cankers. The disease spots appear from early summer on.

Control by spraying with Bordeaux mixture, in early spring before pruning. Spray the soil around the bushes, as well as the plants, and repeat at intervals throughout the summer.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Mayor Morris Block, the first mayor of Kingston to die in office, died on November 5, 1926, in a private sanitarium in New York city where on October 19, of that year, he had undergone an operation on his throat. Bronchial pneumonia developed with fatal results. Mayor Block was 64 years old.

Alderman-at-large Edgar J. Dempsey, who had been serving as acting mayor during Block's illness, automatically became mayor of Kingston, and filled out the unexpired term of Mayor Block.

Mayor Block for years was active in the political and business life of Kingston. When still a young man he was elected a member of the Board of Supervisors from his ward, and later served as alderman of the ward.

He lived practically his entire life in the Ponckhockie section of the city, but in later years had erected a home on Spring street, near Wurts street.

In 1901 he was selected as the Democratic candidate for mayor. He was elected, serving through 1902 and 1903, when he was re-nominated and re-elected serving through 1904 and 1905.

During the administration of Palmer Canfield as mayor, he was appointed city assessor, holding the post for several years. Mayor Block also served as city treasurer during the administration of William D. Brimmer as mayor in the late 1890's.

In 1922 he was again named as the Democratic candidate for mayor and was elected, serving during 1924 and 1925, when he was re-elected for a term expiring December 31, 1927.

Mayor Block was one of the most ardent politicians in the history of Kingston. He was also a man of his word, and while serving as mayor gave one of the best administrations possible under conditions existing at the time he held office.

He was president and founder of the Kingston Dress Co.

For years he was an active member of Temple Emanuel on Abel street.

That he was popular with the voters of the city was clearly shown when he was elected mayor four times.

Another well known man who died on November 12, 1926, was Michael I. Dunne, contracting plumber of Staples street. Mr. Dunne was the city's first plumbing inspector when the office was created in 1894, and he held the post until 1905.

Long active in volunteer fireman affairs, he was the last surviving charter member of Twaalfskill Hose Co., and was a member of the Exempt Firemen's Association.

Milton Townsend of the First Dutch Reformed Church was elected president of the Kingston Local Union of Christian Endeavor at the annual meeting held November 5, 1925, in the Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

The other officers elected were Edwin Hummel of Port Ewen and Eva Newkirk of Kingston, vice presidents; Beatrice Powley, treasurer; Catherine Tremper, recording secretary; Dorothy Wingert, corresponding secretary, and Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastoral counselor.

The officers were installed by State Trustee Luther D. Decker.

DeWitt Van Buren of Scarsdale, a former Kingston resident, who is a real estate law and appraisal instructor at Columbia University, has been elected president of the newly-organized Columbia Society of Real Estate Appraisers at a dinner meeting at the Men's Faculty Club in New York city. The meeting was attended by Mr. Van Buren's students, past and present, and appraisers from New York city and the adjacent area.

New Styles, Colors Mark Annual Fashion Show Of Women's Club as Best Since Before War

Not since before the war has there been a display of fashions, new colors and styles been modeled at the Y.W.C.A. Women's Club Fashion Show as exhibited yesterday afternoon at the annual show in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

About 70 garments were shown each with a distinctive style note, promising the return to careful tailoring and new trends. About 100 people attended.

Navy blue is back. The new colors included a vivid medium blue; a deep turquoise entitled porcelain blue; a new neutral, silver birch; a blue lettuce green; and a blue described as deeper than Copen. It explained that violet and lavender shades were few because of the difficulty in obtaining a high grade dye in these colors.

Although restrictions still impact the dressmaker how much material may be used in each garment, dress lines are generally more rounded and feminine than the straight, tailored, heavily shoulder-padded clothes of the last few years.

Evening gowns and the street length style formal gowns were shown for the first time in several years. Peplums predominated; peplums on cottons, front peplums on afternoon dresses and peplums on suits. Slender skirts were made with peg tops for suits and in gowns were eased at the waistline with the side front fullness. Applique, embroidery and sequins were used sparingly. Several bare midriff styles were shown. Real baby raw silk returned this year.

Setting Attractive

The setting for the show was most attractive this year with many brilliant colored cineraria provided by Valentin Burgein Inc. and special spot lights by Canfield Supply Co. and Herbert Myers. Several platforms were arranged with the flowers and lights by Miss Helen Sheldon, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Howard A. Lewis, Mrs. Richard Morse and Miss Ruth Smith. Several bouquets of forsythia and pussy willows were used as background. Mrs. Helen Davenport was commentator and Mrs. Vere Nessel provided the musical background with selections on the piano. During intermission she also played several solos on the piano accordion.

Children Model

The first to model were the children. A gray, coral and green plaid suit with coral Chesterfield and navy blue off-the-face hat were shown for a seven year old girl. A pink cotton was trimmed with embroidery. A family group modeled a yellow cotton with white eyelet embroidery trimming and yoke for little sister; pale blue wool suit with striped top for baby brother and a soft aqua striped cotton chambray for mother. Grandmother wore a turquoise jumper type dress with white blouse and carried baby dressed in pink dotted Swiss with white pique bonnet. For the school boy a Frank Sinatra two-toned gray suit complete with bow tie was modeled and a leisure sport suit was shown for the high school boy.

Each of the play clothes styles had a distinctive note from the pinafore to the bare midriff to back with pink flower print. This midriff suit minus the skirt became a bathing suit.

The morning and early afternoon dresses were shown in the same grouping. For the younger set a pale yellow cotton was modeled with a flare front peplum edged with gray eyelet embroidery. The slit cardigan neckline was also marked with the embroidery. The front peplum was used in a sheer pink tailored dress. A halter-neck dress with bolero was shown in a red and gray on white. A deep rose print in Bernberg sheer was designed with the favorite fly-front. A brown striped aqua chambray used the bare midriff and a red and white print cotton boasted a flounced hemline.

A draw-string pink rayon skirt printed with black was worn with a black blouse. One of the straight line dresses in chartruese buttoned down the back had a high jewelry neckline and was worn with a black belt caught with two fuchsia colored carnations. A cream color dress with red accessories was suggested for the teen-age group. A bright red rayon print was fashioned with soft skirt fullness and a semi-cold neckline outlined with an accordion pleated ruffle.

Suits in Many Styles

Two suits for the matron were shown: one an ideal soft gray wool, collarless neckline, yoke with detailed fullness, one button jacket, by front skirt; and the other in a soft aqua color made with similar details and worn with a black Chesterfield. In contrast was a navy blue suit for the younger set. The jacket with the peplum was completely lined with red flannel. A black and white striped jacket of Guatemala cloth. This jacket featured the front belt and full wing back. A silver fox jacket was worn over a black wool dress suit made with drop shoulder yoke. A cerise short length topper was designed with a belted back. The peplum in the later afternoon dresses was used several times. For the debutante a semi-tailored frock in chartruese with tiny black sequin print had a tailored peplum. A navy blue cape dress for the matron had a front peplum and plain back. A peplum effect was simulated with white band trimming on the new "deeper than Copen blue" dress. A rayon silk print contained shades of brown, maroon and yellow on a light blue background. This was made on straight lines. A gray wool dress with cape sleeves was worn with a matching green plaid jacket which was made with a drop-shoulder effect yoke outlined with gray fringe. The silver birch color in crepe was used for an afternoon dress with black top for the bodice and a band of tangerine. A late afternoon frock of black tulle was designed with low neckline, tiny puffed sleeves and full skirt. The basic black was styled with square neckline and side drape.

There were five evening gowns, three of which were the new short length to double at cocktail time. Of the latter the most unusual was a soft lettuce green gown. When worn with matching jacket it resembled a sport dress; but when the jacket was removed, the gown was designed with simple shoulder straps and an all-around bare midriff of lattice work. Another was a bolero covered black strapless gown with lamb applique on the skirt. Another short gown for the younger group was in white with aqua appliqued bows paneling the front, aqua straps and an aqua bolero. The evening gown modeled was made with a red jersey bodice and bouffant white net skirt. A dinner gown in gray and blue print jersey was also shown.

Hats Varied

Hats shown from the Paris Millinery, Teresa-Rose Hat Shop and Carl Millinery showed a diversified selection. The half hats were still in good taste this year as were modified sailors and flowered hats. The texture of the straws varied. Several showed the flowers arranged down one side of the hat rather than at the top. Velvet and grosgrain ribbon bands caught with small clusters of flowers were favorites with the younger models. Jewelry, including several stunning dinner rings as well as lapel pins and necklaces, was from Safford and Scudder. Gloves and several of the pocketbooks were from The Wonderly Co. and Mayfair shops.

Clothing was from the shops of London's, Brother and Sister, Jeanette, Mayfair, Montgomery Ward, Weisberg's, Goldman's, Sue Loughran, Hurley; and Helen Davenport.

In closing the show two dresses from the latter part of the last century were modeled. Miss Helen Loughran wore a white graduation dress which had been worn at old Kingston Academy in 1882. Miss Ruth Smith modeled a black moire tulle formal afternoon dress of 1870. Both dresses belonged to Miss Smith.

Models for the children's fashions were Nancy Remmert, Clara Lewis, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Charles, and children Herbert and Barbara Schultz; Billy Herlihy, Mrs. Howard A. Lewis as the grandmother, and Charles Arnold for high school boy.

Other models included the Misses Phyllis Ertel, Bianca Ertel, Babette Forst, Nancy Halverson, Patricia Caunitz, Elaine Gruberg, Mary Fenton, Barbara Dawe, Ann Steenken, Patricia Craft, Barbara Krom and Hilda Brown, Mrs. William H. Fuller, Mrs. Louise F. Hurley, Mrs. Arnold Johnson, Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, Mrs. Willis R. Locke, Mrs. Parran Gates, Mrs. G. Herbert DeKay, Mrs. Marie Gilpatrick, Mrs. William H. Hilton, Mrs. Richard Kalish, and Mrs. Fred Ertel.

A food sale was held in the lobby of the hotel with Mrs. James A. Mathers and Mrs. Edwin Phelan in charge. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. John Pope and Mrs. John Barton.

At the annual election of Judea Shrine No. 12, White Shrine of Jerusalem, held at the Masonic Temple Thursday night, Gertrude L. Keator was elected worthy high priestess. Other officers named were: Arthur J. Keator, watchman of shepherds; Charlotte Hadley, noble prophetess; Paul A. Hadley, associate watchman of shepherds; Almedia Trumpait, scribe; Mary H. Ingalls, treasurer; Ethel M. Jones, chaplain; Rose Mary Jones, shepherdess; Mary E. Smith, guide.

Gertrude L. Keator Is High Priestess Of Judea Shrine, No. 12

The officers will be installed at a public installation on Saturday evening, April 27. Annual reports of the high priestess, scribe, treasurer and trustees showed Judea Shrine to be in good financial condition.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 23, 1946

FERRY BILL FACTS

The bill authorizing and directing the New York State Bridge Authority to install and operate a ferry between Kingston and Rhinecliff was introduced by Senator Wicks in the early days of the 1945 session of the Legislature, was signed by the Governor and became Chapter 836 of the Laws of 1945. That bill authorized the bridge authority to issue bonds for the purchase of a ferryboat and two terminals, and fixed the life of such bonds. During the summer of 1945, the state comptroller and the attorney general consented to the use of funds from the improvement fund of the bridge authority for the purchase of a boat and terminals, which made the issuance of bonds unnecessary. Ever since last summer, the bridge authority has been searching for a boat that was suitable for the run between Kingston and Rhinecliff and success crowned its efforts several months ago, when the modern ferryboat Richmond was located and plans made for its purchase. The bridge authority has since entered into a purchase contract with the Rhinebeck & Kingston Ferry Co. for the purchase of the two present ferry terminals and this transaction will be consummated as soon as the searching of the title of the properties has been completed by the attorney general.

On January 30, 1946, Senator Wicks introduced a bill in the Senate, which has now passed both houses of the Legislature, known as Senate Int. 841, Print 888, entitled, "An act to repeal subdivisions 17 and 18 of section 61 of the state finance law, relating to the probable life of ferry terminals and ferryboats for purposes of state debt". This bill, of course, had nothing whatsoever to do about establishing a ferry here because that had been done by Chapter 836 of the laws of 1945, passed and approved by the Governor last year. This new bill simply takes out of the law the provisions put in the law last year which authorized the bridge authority to issue bonds and providing when the bonds had to be paid, which, in legal parlance, is called "probable life."

In other words, no bonds were issued, because the funds were taken out of the funds now on hand by the bridge authority, and it was deemed advisable, in the interest of good legal craftsmanship, to take out of the law powers of the bridge authority to issue bonds which were no longer necessary.

WHAT THE GERMANS READ

What are the Germans in the American occupation zone reading? H. R. Baukhage, writing in the Saturday Review of Literature, who has been trying to find out, says that the answer is simple: anything they can.

Practical information on how to make the food ration go farther, how to make essential repairs, and economical suggestions about clothing are the most popular. Novels which might let the readers escape temporarily from their dreary surroundings are always in demand. But the most surprising discovery is the popularity of the magazines issued by OMGUS, as the Office of the Military Government of the United States is currently known. These magazines have articles on democracy and American ideals, rather heavy going for American readers, but they are snapped up by the Germans. The idea behind these magazines is to show the Germans that we are capable of serious philosophical and literary effort, since the Nazis had been representing Americans as barbaric children. So far 250,000 copies of one of the most serious of these magazines have been sold, and it continues to be reprinted.

All this is seed sown. Only time will tell.

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

LEHMAN VS. HOOVER

Obviously Governor Lehman resigned from U.N.R.R.A. in pique over the appointment of Herbert Hoover to discover why U.N.R.R.A. failed to save Europe from famine. During the entire course of the war, Mr. Hoover has been warning of famine, and even when Governor Lehman visited him at the Waldorf-Astoria upon his appointment to head U.N.R.R.A., Mr. Hoover warned him of the nearness of famine. The former President is now in Europe representing not a congeries of nations but the people of the United States, the most generous nation on earth.

But U.N.R.R.A. is a political agency. It is a compromise among governments and it cannot possibly work because some governments want to use hunger, starvation, distress and despair politically. I am sure that Mr. Lehman has all along meant well, but he is not one that fights great names nor great causes. He is more the administrative type that respects authority even when it is vile, and dignifies the corrupt of heart by obedience when circumstance demands that he speak out truthfully, and courageously no matter whom his words may blast.

Mr. Lehman knows, as he must, that the wheat that Soviet Russia offers France is American wheat to be carried in American ships. Anyone with even slight political acumen will recognize that this offer was made France so that the hungry French, the French Communist. They will vote for anyone for bread, for they are hungry. Wheat is used for politics, not for relief. Hunger is employed to corrupt the spirit as it weakens the body.

Does Mr. Lehman or U.N.R.R.A. dare to demand that Russia pool her surplus as we and Canada pool ours and as the Argentine would undoubtedly be willing to pool her surplus? Does he inquire of the wheat of the Ukraine and White Russia and Bessarabia and the Dobruja—granaries of Europe for centuries? Does he ask Russia to pay her full share into U.N.R.R.A.?

Famine does not wait upon personalities nor politeness. Senator Pepper may serve support politeness, but death from starvation is not arrested by the timidity of the Floridian whose heart is sensitive to Moscow. Until the next harvest is gathered, millions of men, women and children must die of hunger no matter how much is done for them.

What they need most are grains and fats. Rationing the American people will not aid more than voluntary abstinence. But what is absolutely essential is that grain needed for human consumption shall not be fed to animals. Because of O.P.A.'s unscientific, impractical ceiling prices, it pays the American farmer to feed grain to hogs rather than to sell the grain for human consumption. And again, because of O.P.A. stupidity, it does not pay the packer to trim lard and tallow. The butcher, in the store, sells the housewife fatty meats which go into our garbage pails. Those fats are essential to save the European sufferers from famine.

To put the whole problem bluntly, the American garbage pail could save millions of lives. Has Mr. Lehman ever told the American people the truth about that? Has U.N.R.R.A. waged a public battle against waste, depending upon the goodwill and charity of the American housewife rather than upon snoopings of O.P.A. officials? Has he ever shown the American people what he must know to be true, that U.N.R.R.A. might have done an effective job if O.P.A. had not dickered farm-food prices so that food farmers weep for hogs eat? It sometimes takes great courage and it is often bad manners to tell the truth. It might even involve a breach of good-fellowship with those who pull at the same straw. So, all that Mr. Lehman can offer to handle a famine is the resumption of rationing in the United States. That is about as stupid as Henry Wallace's fake report on wages and prices. It is of a piece with all the initiative totalitarianism in our planless, improvised New Deal.

Sniping at Hoover will not help bring anyone a loaf of bread. It will only comfort the Communists who fear the consequences of an honest report to the nation by a courageous American.

FALSE PLEURISY
Some years before World War II, I wrote about an epidemic of what at first appeared to be pleurisy which occurred in a village in England. Further investigation revealed that it was false pleurisy because the pain was really in the muscles on the outside of the ribs instead of in the membrane or lining of inside of ribs. This ailment is called false pleurisy or pleurodynia, which occurring in other parts of the body is usually called muscular rheumatism or a "cold" in the muscles. There were so many cases that while the actual cause was unknown it was believed to be a communicable disease.

Toward the end of World War II another epidemic occurred in a New Zealand Air Force Station. There were 32 cases reported by Dr. R. N. Akel. All the patients recovered in a few days, relief from pain being obtained by strapping the chest with adhesive tape as in true pleurisy. This prevents much movement of the chest muscles. Dr. Akel pointed out that in pleurodynia there is a rise in temperature which is not found in muscular rheumatism or a "cold" in the muscles of the chest.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Samuel J. Nicholson, Surgeon (R) U. S. Public Health Service, Memphis, Tenn., reports that in the early summer of 1944 he was confronted with an outbreak of epidemic pleurodynia on an island war housing project for shipyard workers. Because the men lived together, ate the same food, and had same working conditions an opportunity was given to study this disease. From June to November, 1944, 73 cases of epidemic pleurodynia were collected on Blakey Island located on the Mobile River. While some of these cases started with a nose and throat disturbance as in so many other ailments most of them did not. The one outstanding symptom in about half the cases was a rise in temperature, whereas in previous epidemics as many as 90 per cent had this rise in temperature. Another feature of this epidemic was pain in upper back chest muscles.

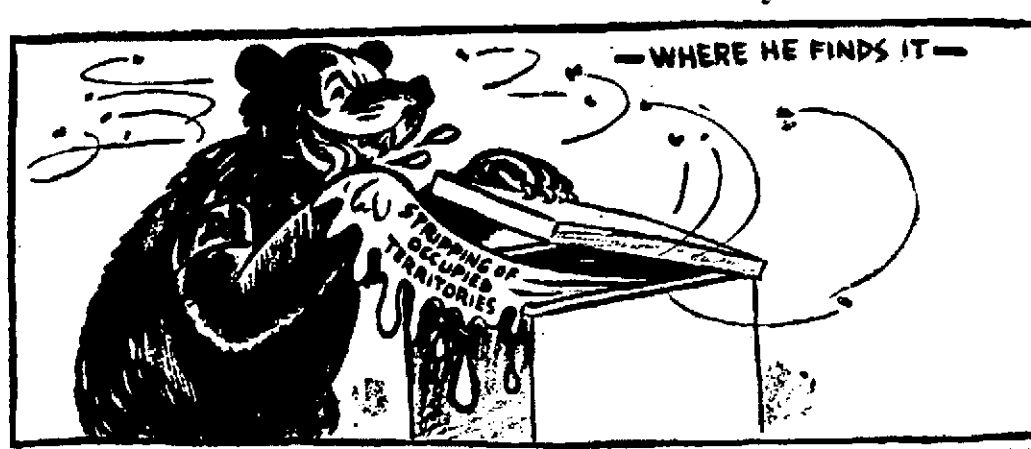

Symptoms besides pain in chest wall were pain in forehead, dizziness, nausea, numbness in hands and arms. Symptoms lasted 1 to 2 weeks. There were no deaths. Rest was the treatment.

For One Who Grabs Honey--

IN COUNTY GRANGES

The discussion on Centralized Schools was opened at the Ulster Grange meeting on Wednesday evening, March 20th, when Ralph Johnson, District Superintendent of Schools stated "I am your servant . . . if you don't get your money's worth, it's your own fault."

I am here to serve you and answer any and all questions, no matter how personal . . . If I don't know the answers, I'll get them for you."

While no definite action on this subject was taken by the Grange, it was apparent, nevertheless, from the type and number of questions asked, the large attendance, and the general discussion which continued long after the meeting had been closed, that something is about to percolate insofar as Grange members are concerned.

Supt. Johnson displayed charts and figures describing various phases of centralization and the problems of taxes, location, type of building, state aid, and many others, were taken up. He stated that he did not feel the issue of Koscius could afford more than a junior high school at this time. According to his records there are 533 boys and girls now available for the centralized school, comprising districts 1, 2, 4, 5, 8, 12, 13, 14 and 15.

Master George M. Hard presided at the meeting. Applications for membership were received from Mrs. George Villhelm, Jr., Ulster Park, and James Holmich, St. Remy. Application for reinstatement was received from Walter Helmich, St. Remy. Ralph Montella, Ulster Park was obligated in the first and second degrees. Mrs. E. Jaqui reported the net proceeds of the Red Cross card party were $33.27. This amount has been turned over to the Red Cross chairman, Earl Terwilliger.

Grange members who have been serving in the armed forces will be the guests of honor at a "Welcome Home" dinner to be held on April 3rd, prior to the regular meeting.

Mrs. George M. Hard, lecturer, is raising money for a special prize to be awarded the Ulster Grange member whose "Highway Essay" is selected for competition in the state and national contests. The amount of the award will be announced at a later date.

The literary program which was in charge of the lecturer was appropriately ended with the singing of "School Days."

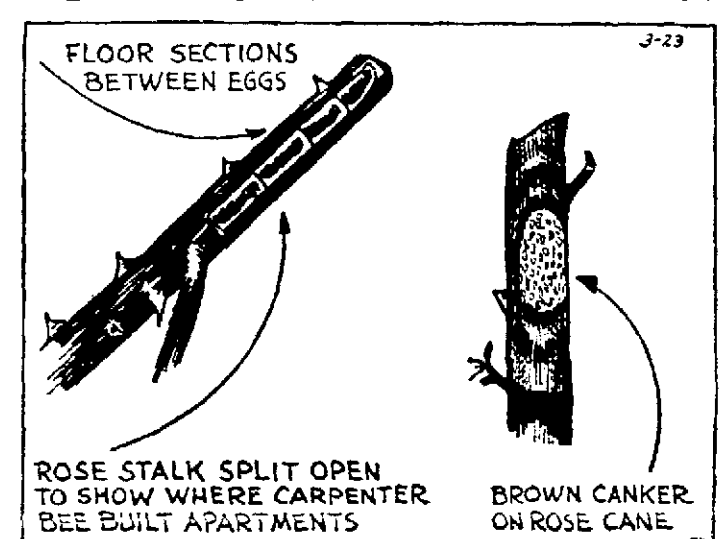

Refreshments were served by the committee which included Mrs. B. Williams, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Opta Gaudette, Mr. and Mrs. George Villhelm, Mr. and Mrs. Bounous, Patsy Cafaro, and Mrs. and Miss Elsie Berger.

Port Jervis Ex-Mayor Is Decorated by Italy

Port Jervis, N. Y., March 22 (AP)—Major Wendell E. Phillips, former mayor of Port Jervis, has been decorated by the Italian government for service as a provincial military governor in Italy. Phillips, who served with Military Government for three years, was awarded the Cavalier of the Order of the Crown of Italy.

Soap bubbles, or drops of oil on a wet pavement are vividly colored because the film is so thin that its thickness approaches the wave length of light, causing the light rays to tangle up, or interfere with each other.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Beware Housing Problem Among Your Roses

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Association

YOU MAY HAVE a "housing problem" among your roses and not know it. If you do you can blame it upon the carpenter bee. Thousands of rose bushes are killed each year by this bee. It is small, has black wings, and works overtime.

The carpenter bee bores down into the soft pith in the stubs of rose canes. Its egg masses are deposited in apartments in the rose cane with a tiny floor built over each section, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

The eggs hatch into green borers, and these in turn form a chrysalis which reproduces from 10 to 12 carpenter bees.

You will know that the carpenter bee has been at work when you see a small hole neatly bored in the end of a cut cane. The cane turns brown and must be taken care of before the bee does damage down to the roots of the rose bush. Otherwise the destruction of the pith inside the cane will cause the bush to die. Prune infected rose canes down to the fresh pith, below the affected part. Applying grafting wax to the freshly cut end of the cane, and this will keep the carpenter bee from drilling new holes. Some gardeners push a large-headed tack down into the newly cut-off stem to balk the bee.

Brown canker on a rose cane is also illustrated. This causes the death or killing back of the canes or stems from girdling by the spreading cankers. The disease spots appear from early summer on.

Control by spraying with Bordeaux mixture, in early spring before pruning. Spray the soil around the bushes, as well as the plants, and repeat at intervals throughout the summer.

Mayor Morris Block, the first mayor of Kingston to die in office, died on November 5, 1926, in a private sanitarium in New York city where on October 19, of that year, he had undergone an operation on his throat. Bronchial pneumonia developed with fatal results. Mayor Block was 64 years old.

Alderman-at-large Edgar J. Dempsey, who had been serving as acting mayor during Block's illness, automatically became mayor of Kingston, and filled out the unexpired term of Mayor Block.

Mayor Block for years was active in the political and business life of Kingston. When still a young man he was elected a member of the Board of Supervisors from his ward, and later served as alderman of the ward.

He lived practically his entire life in the Ponckhockie section of the city, but in later years had erected a home on Spring street, near Wolfe street.

In 1901 he was selected as the Democratic candidate for mayor. He was elected, serving through 1902 and 1903, when he was re-nominated and re-elected serving through 1904 and 1905.

During the administration of Palmer Canfield as mayor he was appointed city assessor, holding the post for several years. Mayor Block also served as city treasurer during the administration of William D. Brinlier as mayor in the late 1890's.

In 1922 he was again named as the Democratic candidate for mayor and was elected, serving during 1924 and 1925, when he was re-elected for a term expiring December 31, 1927.

Mayor Block was one of the most ardent politicians in the history of Kingston. He was also a man of his word, and while serving as mayor gave one of the best administrations possible under conditions existing at the time he held office.

He was president and founder of the Kingston Dress Co.

For years he was an active member of Temple Emanuel on Abbot street. That he was popular with the voters of the city was clearly shown when he was elected mayor four times.

Another well known man who died on November 12, 1926, was Michael I. Dunne, contracting plumber of Staples street. Mr. Dunne was the city's first plumbing inspector when the office was created in 1894, and he held the post until 1905.

Long active in volunteer fireman affairs, he was the last surviving charter member of Twentieth Fire Co., and was a member of the Exempt Firemen's Association.

Milton Townsend of the First Dutch Reformed Church was elected president of the Kingston Local Union of Christian Endeavor at the annual meeting held November 5, 1925, in the Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

The other officers elected were Edwin Hummel of Port Ewen and Eva Newkirk of Kingston, vice presidents; Beatrice Dowdy, treasurer; Catherine Tromper, recording secretary; Dorothy Winger, corresponding secretary, and the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastoral counselor.

The officers were installed by State Trustee Luther D. Decker.

The meeting was attended by Mr. Van Buren's students, past and present, and appraisers from New York city and the adjacent area.

Editor, The Freeman:

This year marks the one hundred first year of the New York State Teachers Association, an association devoted to the ideals and aims of the professional teacher in New York State.

During the administration of James A. Polk, the Association was founded in Syracuse by a small group of educators. It is interesting to note that twenty-five states then comprised the Union. In the same year, 1845, Texas, the last slave state, was admitted to the union. At Annapolis, the Naval Academy was founded. The future still held the secrets of the war with Mexico, the discovery of gold in California, and the Fugitive Slave Law. Uncle Tom's Cabin was yet to be written.

In 1843, the schools were under a dual system of education. Private schools and colleges were under the Board of Regents; the common schools were under the Secretary of State. It was not until 1887 that the schools were made free. Schools had been made free since 1795, but it was not until 1920 that the money was prepared to become an all adequate educational fund. Since that time, at intervals, state aid has been substantially increased. The New York State Teachers Association has been instrumental in bringing about these changes.

Throughout the years, it has been the care of the teacher. The Association has fostered school cooperation.

Founded at a time when education in the one-room school house was general, the Association has led the trend to the centralized school of the present day. Much still remains to be done before all children in all the rural areas share in the benefits to be derived from a central school.

Judge—Just where did the defendant's automobile hit you, Miss?

Miss—Well, Your Honor, if I had been wearing a license plate it would have been badly damaged.

A story is told that during the war a patriotic old lady was driving in the country and saw a young man milking a cow. She thought the young man was old enough to enlist, so she stopped and said to him:

Old Lady—Young man, why are you not at the front?

Young Man—Because there ain't any milk at that end.

Tire Boom For 1946 Predicted by Goodrich

Chicago, March 22 (AP)—John L. Collier, president of the B. F. Goodrich Co., today predicted a 1946 tire production of 80 million units—46 per cent above the 1940 output, with an unlimited supply of passenger-car tires by the end of the year.

Collier, in an address prepared for delivery before the Chicago Technical Societies Council, said that much and more tires should be in ample supply by midsummer. For passenger-car tires you may have to wait several weeks after placing an order—but by the end of 1946 you should be able to get as many tires as you want of your brand, and size when you want them.

Additional State Aid For Central Schools

Albany, N. Y., March 22 (AP)—Additional state aid of $175,000 to central school districts was announced today in a "compromise" bill introduced in the Senate by the approval of Governor Dewey's administration.

The money would be allocated by the State Commissioner of Education under an "equitable" method to be adopted by him, and as a condition of the new measure working out of conference among the executive and legislative branches of the state government and the education commission, the bill provides that the aid be distributed to central schools.

Not all of the central schools, however, will receive the money. The bill provides that the aid be distributed to those central schools which have a per capita income below the state average.

When the bill is passed, the money will be distributed to the central schools which have a per capita income below the state average.

Callanan Crushing 2,000 Tons of Stone Daily

The Callanan Road Improvement Co. at Connelly plans to resume the crushing of all sizes of stone at the big plant on Monday, and as soon as building materials are available plan to erect a large asphalt plant to be operated in connection with the crushed stone business.

The plant, which employs approximately 50 men the year round, opened in 1937, turning out large rip rap stone. The concern set up a crushing plant in 1940, crushing stone for all sizes. The daily output at the plant is 2,000 tons of all sizes of crushed stone. The bulk of the material turned out is shipped to the metropolitan area in stone barges. During the past winter when the crushing plant was idle, the concern, which had a large supply of stone on hand, kept the trade supplied with truck deliveries. The stone crusher has been thoroughly overhauled and the power will be turned on Monday morning, when the work of crushing stone will be resumed. The entire force of men employed by the concern were kept busy all winter at various jobs on the grounds. The bulk of the company's product are purchased by construction concerns and dealers.

Honesty Is Best Policy

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—Two men, identical in height, appearance and clothing, stood before Traffic Judge Harry P. Beam yesterday as a bailiff read a charge of passing a street car on the left side. Both men raised their hands.

Policeman Leonard Maloney, the arresting officer, was asked to make identification. He eyed the two men intently. Finally he told Judge Beam: "Honest, judge, I don't know which one—but it was one of them."

One of the men, grinning, spoke up:

"It was me, judge. I'm John Henry Bokma, 30. This is my brother, Theodore James. They couldn't even tell us apart in the Army."

"Well," Judge Beam sighed, "you were honest and you have good war records. I'm going to dismiss the case against you twins."

"But we aren't twins," chorused the brothers, pointing to a young lady who had stepped up to the bench. "This is our sister, Lucille. We're triplets."

ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN

THE TRUTH ABOUT HOME BUILDING IN 1946

IT'S TIME VETERANS AND ALL CITIZENS WERE TOLD THE TRUTH ABOUT THE HOME BUILDING SITUATION.

The main bottleneck to home construction is production of materials and equipment.

No legislation, Presidential announcement, government control plan, or system can produce a single additional home until production of materials is speeded up.

Lumber Dealers and the Building Industry are eager to build homes for veterans and all citizens who need them. The reason few homes are being built is because materials are not being produced.

WHY?

1. Governed by O.P.A.'s war-time pricing formulas, it is still more profitable for lumber mills to make items for export—and the items formerly required for war use, than it is to make lumber usable in Home Construction.

2. O.P.A.'s war-time pricing formulas are still keeping thousands of small mills out of production.

3. O.P.A.'s enforcement policies have allowed the creation of a large black market in lumber which is moving outside of regular channels of trade.

4. O.P.A.'s slowness in adjusting mill ceiling prices on hardwood flooring, siding, millwork and plywood has contributed to the difficulties mills are having in securing necessary manpower.

With 400 brick and tile plants closed, it took 6 months for O.P.A. to adjust prices. Now an additional 125 plants have opened and production is up 35%.

Clay sewer pipe, cast iron soil pipe and Gypsum board manufacturers have experienced a similar O.P.A. delay in the granting of price adjustments to make increased production possible.

No amount of juggling with an insufficient supply will produce a single home more than can be built with material available.

The O.P.A. can hardly hold present price ceilings when it has no control over volume of employment, labor wage rates, cashing of government bonds, and installment or credit expansion—BUT THE O.P.A. CAN ACT AS A BLOCK TO RECONVERSION BY CLINGING TO UNREALISTIC WARTIME PRICE CEILINGS.

Callanan Crushing 2,000 Tons of Stone Daily

The Callanan Road Improvement Co. at Connetquot plans to resume the crushing of all sizes of stone at the big plant on Monday, and as soon as building materials are available plan to erect a large asphalt plant to be operated in connection with the crushed stone business.

The plant, which employs approximately 50 men, the year round, opened in 1937, turning out large rip rap stone. The concern set up a crushing plant in 1940, crushing stone for all sizes. The daily output at the plant is 2,000 tons of all sizes of crushed stone. The bulk of the material turned out is shipped to the metropolitan area in stone barges. During the past winter when the crushing plant was idle, the concern, which had a large supply of stone on hand, kept the trade supplied with truck deliveries. The stone crusher has been thoroughly overhauled and the power will be turned on Monday morning, when the work of crushing stone will be resumed. The entire force of men employed by the concern were kept busy all winter at various jobs on the grounds. The bulk of the company's product are purchased by construction concerns and dealers.

Legislative Roundup

By TOM BENTON

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (P.)—Governor Dewey's $7,000,000 supplemental budget is among the flood of bills which the legislature must pass upon before it adjourns Tuesday.

The Budget Bill, which includes funds to launch Dewey's $14,000,000 long-range public health program, appropriates:

$3,723,000—For local assistance, including health measures and $1,000,000 for local child care under the State Youth Commission.

$2,374,000—From the Postwar Reconstruction Fund for projects on which cost estimated were in the original budget message.

$871,263—For the State Purposes Fund, including functions of the various departments and $61,716 for the legislature and judiciary.

Another Dewey measure introduced yesterday calls for a $1,750,000 increase in state aid to central schools, to be distributed "in accordance with an equitable method" to be devised before May 1 by the education commissioner, with the budget director's approval.

The increase, Dewey said, would be temporary pending a thorough study of the Central School Aid System. Revision of the Friedman formula governing state aid for schools last year did not affect central schools, which now receive about $21,000,000 annually.

The governor's budget, including supplementary appropriations, totals about $355,000,000. Appropriations from the Postwar Reconstruction Fund amount to about $445,000,000.

The administration's health program, including a 20-year campaign to wipe out tuberculosis, received final legislative approval yesterday. About $2,000,000 will be needed this year to get it under way.

Dewey, meanwhile, signed a bill to increase from $200 to $350 a day the maximum assessment which may be made against a racing association for state supervisory functions at a race meeting. He vetoed a measure which would have permitted judges to fix costs and disbursements in proceedings involving the disposition of real property of an infant.

Bills passed by the Senate and sent to the governor would: Make the right of veterans involved in strikes to collect unemployment insurance benefits retroactive to November 1, 1943.

Provide for the award of the State Conspicuous Service Cross to holders of the Purple Heart.

Require veterans oversteering of meeting school buses halting to discharge passengers, to stop until the bus resumes motion.

Continue to July 1, 1947, permission for junior drivers to operate motor vehicles for farm purposes on public highways.

Passed by the Senate and sent to the Assembly were bills which would:

Increase from $400,000 to $550,000 the annual state aid distributed to county agricultural societies, the American Institute of New York city and local farm societies for promotion of agriculture and domestic arts.

Appropriate $35,000 for administration of a state school lunch program.

Repeal a wartime provision permitting 17-year-olds to hold senior driving permits.

Create a world trade corporation to sponsor an annual commercial and industrial fair in the state.

The Assembly passed and sent to the governor bills which would: Increase state aid to localities for education of each blind or deaf pupil from $300 to $400 a year.

Continue until July 1, 1947, the period during which deficiency judgments may not be recovered in mortgage property foreclosure actions.

Extend guaranteed collective bargaining rights to persons employed by religious, charitable or educational institutions on profit-making projects.

Ellenville Army Youth Is Drowned in Pacific

P.F.C. Sidney A. Dole, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dole of 62 Market street, Ellenville, was drowned on Oahu Island, in the Pacific, February 22, according to word received from the War Department. He had been transferred to Oahu the day before his death. Sidney graduated from the Ellenville High School in 1944 and in August of that year enlisted in the Army. He received extensive training in radar and for the past seven months had been with a fighter control squadron of the Army Air Force, stationed at various places in the Pacific area. During his high school career he received letters in basketball and soccer and sustained a fracture of the leg while engaged in the latter sport.

The conference, Russia was reported ready to renew the plan she advanced at London for denial of UNRRA aid to persons who refused to return to their homelands.

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—Two men, identical in height, appearance and clothing, stood before Judge Harry D. Beam yesterday as a crowd read a charge of passing a street car on the left side. Beam men raised their hands.

Policeman Leonard Maloney, the arresting officer, was asked to make identification. He eyed the two men intently. Finally he told Beam: "Honest, Judge, I don't know which one, but it was one of them."

One of the men, grinning, spoke up. "I was me, Judge. I'm John Henry Beam, Jr. This is my brother, Theodore James. They couldn't even tell us apart in the Army."

"Well," Judge Beam sighed, "you were honest and you have good records. I'm going to dismiss the case against you boys."

"But we aren't twins," chuckled the brothers, pointing to a young lady who had stepped up to the bench. "This is our sister, Lucille. We're triplets."

ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN

THE TRUTH ABOUT HOME BUILDING

IT'S TIME VETERANS AND ALL CITIZENS WERE TOLD THE TRUTH ABOUT THE HOME BUILDING SITUATION.

The main bottleneck to home construction is production of materials and equipment.

No legislation, Presidential announcement, government control plan, or system can produce a single additional home until production of materials is speeded up.

Lumber Dealers and the Building Industry are eager to build homes for veterans and all citizens who need them. The reason few homes are being built is because materials are not being produced.

WHY?

1. Governed by O.P.A.'s war-time pricing formulas, it is still more profitable for lumber mills to make items for export—and the items formerly required for war use, than it is to make lumber usable in Home Construction.

2. O.P.A.'s war-time pricing formulas are still keeping thousands of small mills out of production.

3. O.P.A.'s enforcement policies have allowed the creation of a large black market in lumber which is

Any government program that does not FIRST remove the obstacles blocking production of materials will simply add additional difficulties to the problem facing the building industry.
